RAIN AND COLD FAIL TO DAMPEN FESTIVAL SPIRIT

'SPIRIT LOVE' DEVOTEE DIES WITH SECRET

Her Last Word: "Good-Bye" to Her Teacher and Adviser

Lake Bluff, Ill., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Elfrieda Knaak, 30-year-old book agent and psychology student, died early today, three days almost to the hour from the time she submitted her arms, feet and head to self-torture in the furnace of the Lake Bluff police station.

With her death, officers said, was locked the story of what actually happened during those hours before the Tuesday dawn when Miss Knaak, after sitting alone all night in the police station, went into the basement where she later was found, near the furnace, badly burned.

Blocks Prosecution
Even should evidence develop pointing to some second party as having had a hand in the tragedy, officers said the young woman's story that she alone had inflicted the burns as self-torture to prove her faith in a "spirit-love" would almost certainly prove a bar to successful prosecution.

Miss Knaak died a few hours after her former psychology teacher and adviser, Charles Hitchcock, had gone on crutches to her bedside and pleaded with her to "tell everything." Hitchcock has been laid up for a week with a broken ankle, an accident of which Miss Knaak apparently did not know when she went to the police station Monday night. It is a police theory that she had intended to meet Hitchcock, who is also night watchman of Lake Bluff, at the station.

Refused to Talk
"Hello, Fritz," Hitchcock said to the dying girl.

Miss Knaak looked him full in the face, but did not speak.

He asked her several questions the authorities had prepared: "Why did you do this terrible thing? Who let you into the police station? Why didn't you telephone me?"

The girl made no reply. As Hitchcock hobbled from the room he called back, "Goodbye."

"Goodbye," said the girl. It was the last word she ever spoke.

Throughout her hours in the hospital Miss Knaak had clung to her original story of faith in a "spirit-love." Even when doctors told her she had but a few hours to live, she refused to amplify her explanation.

Authorities had doubted her story. It seemed impossible. At first it was thought she might have been the victim of a madman's attack, but there were no facts to substantiate such a conclusion. At every turn of the investigation, when officers tried to fathom a plausible explanation, they were forced back to the girl's own story of self-immolation.

Hoover and Borah on Air This Eve
Tonight Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, will speak over the National Broadcasting Company's red network, extended to include stations on the Pacific Coast and three transmitters in North Dakota and Iowa. His address will be delivered before a huge demonstration to be staged in St. Louis, and will go on the air between 8:30 and 9:30 o'clock Central Standard Time.

Immediately following this campaign speech the Republican National Committee is to present the Hon. William E. Borah, the "fiery" Senator from Idaho, as he is known to everyone, speaking from Boston over the same network to be used for Herbert Hoover's St. Louis address. No time limit has been set for this much-looked for address from the doughty Idaho warrior. He will begin at 9:30 central standard time and no effort will be made to keep him within a certain period. Radio listeners will have an opportunity to hear him from beginning to end.

The NBC red network has been secured for these two highly important addresses, including WGN, Chicago and WOC, Davenport.

HOOVER SEES VICTORY FOR REPUBLICANS

Unparalleled Registration Shows Seriousness of Issues

BY JAMES L. WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover pointed today to the unparalleled registration for next Tuesday's election as "expressive of the seriousness of the issue and the earnestness and conviction with which our people are meeting them."

"This evidence of unprecedented interest in the future of the republic must be gratifying to every one who has its welfare at heart," he said in the second address in his final campaign swing which will take him to his California home to vote.

"It means more than triumph of our party over another; it means more than victory of one individual as against another; it means in the end the triumph of that everlasting principle of self-government upon which America has grown to the leadership of the world."

The issues in this campaign "are moral as well as economic," he asserted, adding that they affected every home and that the result of the election "will affect the direction of our national thought and our national actions for many years to come."

Reiterating his confidence in Republican victory, Hoover declared he did not believe the American people would wish a change in their policies of government "in a time of such manifest evidence of progress, assurance of peace, advancement of prosperity, advancement of education and moral forces."

Hoover's speech was delivered in the Jefferson county armory before a cheering throng which packed the huge building to overflowing. A last minute change was necessary as rain had been arranged in front of the Jefferson county court house.

Despite the first bad weather the Republican nominee had encountered in his campaign a large crowd greeted him at the station and along the streets through which he passed on the way to the armory.

As the nominee appeared on the armory platform he was given an ovation and it was with difficulty that Mayor William F. Harrison of Louisville obtained order to introduce first Mrs. Hoover and then Mr. Hoover.

Franklin Man Held on Larceny Charges
Glance Richwine of Franklin Grove who has been employed by Percy and W. M. Pelton who are operating under the name of the Northern Illinois Service company freight line was bound over to the action of the Whiteside county January grand jury Wednesday by Judge Mitchell of Sterling on a charge of larceny.

On October 27th the defendant is charged with taking four tires and four tubes and a sack of potatoes from the above company. He borrowed a truck and disposed of them at Davenport, Iowa. Everything has been recovered, except the sack of potatoes.

Richwine accompanied a deputy sheriff to Davenport and showed where he had disposed of the tires and tubes.

His bonds were placed at $1500 and failing to furnish that amount he was taken to Morrison and lodged in the county jail.

SNOW AND COLDER WEATHER COMING OUT OF THE WEST

Freezing Weather May Reach South Far as Texas Panhandle

Kansas City, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Driven on by fresh blasts from the Arctic, a Rocky Mountain blizzard with accompanying snow, rain and freezing temperatures spread farther afield into the middlewest today threatening the lower Mississippi Valley regions with snow and nearly all of Texas with cold weather.

The outlook was for more snow in Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas. Strong north winds swept Oklahoma, where the temperatures hovered about the freezing mark. Freezing weather was expected in the Panhandle and south Texas plains, with the prediction that only the extreme southern portion would escape the cold wave, which followed heavy rains in the state.

Somewhat warmer weather prevailed in North and South Dakota, and in western Nebraska, temporarily releasing those sections from the blizzard which brought a heavy drifting snow mantle to the grazing country.

Omaha and eastern Nebraska received the first touch of the snow last night, which followed heavy rain fall over a 36-hour period. Continued low temperatures with snow prevailed at Sioux City. Snowfall in South Dakota ranged from four to six inches while southern Minnesota also was visited by snowfall.

Cars Crashed Today at Peoria & Third
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sodergreen and little daughter of 1213 Third street, narrowly escaped being killed in an automobile crash at the intersection of Peoria avenue and Third street this morning a few minutes before 10 o'clock, when the Chevrolet coach in which they were riding was struck by a Chevrolet touring car driven by Mrs. Edward F. Smith of 820 West Fourth street. Both cars were badly damaged and had to be towed to garages.

Mr. Sodergreen was driving east on Third street and was making the turn north on Peoria avenue, when Mrs. Smith, who was driving west on Third street, crashed into the rear of the Sodergreen car. Mrs. Sodergreen was thrown out of the door of her car, one of the wheels passing over her foot. Her daughter was thrown through the glass in one of the doors, but miraculously escaped with only slight bruises. All of the parties were considerably shaken up and Mrs. Sodergreen was taken to her home.

Mrs. Smith came to the police station later to report the accident to Chief Van Bibber and stated that she was driving at a speed of about 30 miles an hour, and did not apply the brakes for fear of turning over, with the result that she crashed into the rear of the Sodergreen car.

Shot Through Leg
The shot struck Morgan in the right knee and passed through the leg. He felt the sting of the bullet as he ran and a few minutes later felt the blood flowing from the wound. He told his companions that he had been shot and was taken directly to the home of a physician at Ashton, where the wound was probed and dressed and an injection of tetanus serum was given to prevent blood poisoning. The news of the shooting was kept quiet until last evening about 5 o'clock when Deputy Sheriff Frank Miller learned of the affair and started an investigation.

He was able to ascertain the name of the young man who had been shot and brought him to Dixon this morning, where Morgan related his version of the affair to Sheriff Miller and State's Attorney Mark Keller. Morgan named the party who fired the shot, it was reported, but this was being withheld until a thorough investigation had been conducted by the county officers, who stated that a warrant would be issued as soon as they were satisfied who fired the shot.

Interest in Trial
San Angel, Mexico, Nov. 2.—(AP)—So intense is the interest of the trial of Jose De Leon-Toral for the assassination of President-elect Obregon, and mother Concepcion charged with being his accomplice, that about 200 persons slept in the streets and plaza in front of the municipal building last night in order to be on hand for the opening of the court this morning.

Marine Corps Capt. Killed in Crash
Newport News, Va., Nov. 2.—(AP)—A mid-air collision of two planes from the Langley Field tactical school yesterday resulted in the death of one pilot, Captain Robert A. Archibald of the Marine Corps, while the other, Captain Earl H. Deford, also of the Marine Corps, landed safely by means of his parachute.

Archibald, like Deford, attempted to make a parachute drop, but pulling the ripcord a moment too soon, the parachute became entangled in the tail gear of his plane and he was hurled to the ground.

The direct cause of the collision is unknown. Both pilots were considered capable aviators.

Victim of Fire is Dead

Here is a new photograph of Miss Elfrieda Knaak, who died today from burns mysteriously received in a furnace in the basement of the Lake Bluff (Ill.) police station. She said she inflicted the burns on herself, although police doubt her story.

YOUTH, ENGAGED IN PRANKS ON HALLOWE'EEN, WAS SHOT THROUGH LEG AT FRANKLIN

Man Who Used Gun on "Raiders" May be Arrested Today

Sheriff Ward Miller and State's Attorney Mark Keller went to Franklin Grove this afternoon to investigate a shooting affray which took place late Wednesday night in which Elwin Morgan, aged 20, was shot through the leg with a 22 caliber rifle. The shooting, according to reports which reached the State's Attorney's office this morning, was the outgrowth of a series of Halloween pranks, which are said to have been quite numerous throughout Wednesday night in Franklin Grove.

Morgan was brought to Dixon this morning by Deputy Sheriff Frank Miller of that place to tell his story of the shooting. Morgan told the county officials that he was a member of a gang of about a dozen boys, ranging in age from 12 to 20 years, who were conducting a raid on "open air telephone booths." They had temporarily rendered useless a number of such structures and had just completed tipping one over, when a man appeared in a garden of the adjoining property, which he said they had not molested, and fired point blank into the crowd of retreating boys and young men.

LARGER, FASTER AIRSHIPS NEEDED ECKENER STATES

Says Graf Zeppelin is Not Big Enough for Ocean Service

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Nov. 2. Now that the air liner Graf Zeppelin is safely home after her round trip trans-Atlantic voyage, Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin Works, is going ahead with plans for even mightier and faster ships.

He hopes to organize a transportation company in conjunction with American interests to build a larger and stronger airship capable of withstanding the heaviest storms. In that event the Graf Zeppelin, with her two ocean crossings to her credit will be used as a school ship for training Zeppelin crews and also for other experiments. A new hangar also must be built at a place to be determined later.

While Dr. Eckener believes that faster and stronger ships must be built to make trans-Atlantic passenger service a reality, he expressed the opinion that the Graf Zeppelin had proved excellent considering its size. In view of the fact that the Graf Zeppelin is the largest dirigible in existence today, what monster proportions the new Zeppelins that Dr. Eckener is dreaming of will assume can only be left to the imagination.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Nov. 2. —(AP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, is convinced that faster and sturdier airships are needed for trans-Atlantic flying and is planning to build them.

"We have not conquered the ocean yet," said the Commander, who faced the possibility of having his ship burst asunder in a gale over the Atlantic.

"All our energy and ability must be concentrated now on elaborating plans of the present Zeppelin to provide a more enduring, powerful dirigible to insure really reliable trans-Atlantic air service."

As for the airship which he built and commanded during a trip of more than 10,000 miles to Lakehurst, N. J., and return, Dr. Eckener said, "This ship is finished for me as far as general regular passenger traffic is concerned."

Dr. Eckener described the trip of the airship and gave his conclusions at a banquet in honor of the crew given by the Zeppelin Corporation and later at a torchlight procession in their honor.

Were Near Disaster.
On the eastward flight one gale was encountered which would have burst the airship asunder if he had continued at high speed, he said. Disaster was averted only when the motors were throttled down to a minimum.

A second gale encountered off the coast of Europe was not much less fierce than the first storm over Newfoundland, Dr. Eckener said.

Hog Cholera Not Serious in Lee
Hog cholera in Lee county has not reached a dangerous stage, according to a statement made by a leading veterinarian this morning, in replying to an inquiry as to the reported epidemic of the disease. Reports have gained circulation during the past few days of a wide spread of the disease among herds in all parts of Lee county. This was denied by the veterinarian, who further added:

"There is some cholera in Lee county herds and doubtless some animals have died from the disease. However, there is no need for fear, as the disease, where it has appeared, is mild and it is not county wide. Northwest of Dixon, there were a number of cases and large number of hogs were lost, but the conditions are not bad in this locality."

"There are other diseases which exact the lives of hogs and reports of cholera are bound to gain circulation, but at the present time there is no cause for alarm among Lee county hog raisers."

A report was made to the Sheriff's office yesterday afternoon of a number of dead hogs which had been lying in a field south of Nelson for almost a week and Sheriff Miller was asked to take some action to cause the owner to bury the carcasses, it having been rumored that the animals had died from cholera.

BOY STOWAWAY ON GRAF ZEPPELIN

Clarence Terhune, 19-year-old New York caddy, will have plenty to tell about when he next appears at the Rye (N. Y.) Country Club, where he has been employed. He stowed away in the big dirigible Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst, and made the trip across the Atlantic to Germany as an uninvited passenger. With him he took all his savings—$50—but it was considered unlikely he would be charged anything for his passage.

STOWAWAY GETS OFFER OF FREE PASSAGE HOME
U. S. Shipping Lines in Proffer of Trip on Company Liner

Berlin, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Clarence Terhune, the young Zeppelin stowaway, has been offered free passage home on the steamer Republic, sailing November 8, by the United States Shipping Lines. Terhune's case under other conditions might have been the occasion for intricate diplomatic negotiations, as a strict interpretation of the German immigration laws would have stipulated that the youth be sent back at the earliest possible moment over the same route as he came on the next westbound Zeppelin.

Now that Terhune is safe ashore, there is considerable speculation as to just how innocent a stowaway he is. Some of the Berlin newspapers are inclined to believe that his going aboard the Zeppelin was a well thought-out plan and that he was aided in stowing away in one of the dark corners of the dirigible. A writer in the Lokal Anzeiger, summing up his view of it, says:

"For sober-minded Europe all that remains of this stowaway is the memory of an American hoax."

Dawes Tells How to Become a Lieut. Col.
Chicago, Nov. 2.—(AP)—"How to become a Lieutenant Colonel" was outlined to the Society of American Military Engineers in a speech by Vice-President Charles G. Dawes last night.

"When I was examined for my commission as Lieutenant Colonel in the Engineering Corps," he said, "I knew nothing about engineering."

"I was asked the question: 'What would you do if you were ordered to survey a field?'"

"I'd send for a surveyor" was my reply. And I passed!"

THE GLY-CAS MAN.

Dixon, said just recently while talking with the Gly-Cas Man who was at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy.

"There seemed to be a weight in the small of my back and sharp, piercing pains would extend to my shoulders and even down into my limbs," continued Mrs. Williams. "I also had dizzy spells and frequently a feeling of weakness would come over me. I realized that I was slowly but surely getting in a worse condition."

"Continuing to hear recommendations for Gly-Cas from persons I knew, I decided to try the medicine and I am indeed grateful for the excellent benefits I have now received. Gly-Cas has actually taken that terrible aching and those piercing pains from my back and limbs. The dizziness and weak spells have all been ended, too. In short, the poisons that were causing my suffering have been eliminated."

"Gly-Cas has given me such satisfaction that I can endorse it above all other medicines. It has truly made me feel like a new person." Gly-Cas sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Polo, C. R. Clothier, Ashton, G. R. Charters, Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug, Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan, and by leading druggist in all surrounding towns—Adv.

den Condensory was runner-up for a place in the prizes. A truck had been arranged representing a model confectionery room in which a number of young ladies dressed in white were at work. They scattered caramels among the crowds who braved the drizzling and sometime down-pouring rain to view the parade. The float was planned by William J. Sullivan, who is in charge of the confectionery division at the local Borden plant.

The Borden Company also entered another fine float which is deserving of honorable mention, this one being arranged by Everett J. Brown, superintendent of the Borden plant. It represented a Boy Scout camp beneath a grove of trees which had been cleverly arranged on the truck.

Boy Scouts Helped
A car filled with Boy Scouts headed the parade and these serviceable young men prepared the red fire which marked the line of march. This was followed by the new American LaFrance pumper, which had been decorated and entered by the fire department, and presented a very pretty appearance. The Y. M. C. A. Boys' band followed on a large truck donated for the purpose by Manager Robert Peterson of the Dixon Implement Company. Decorated automobiles and floats brought up the remainder of the long line of almost a hundred motor cars. The Sandusky Cement Company entered one of their big trucks which was decorated with empty cement sacks. The "Frigidaire" float entered by William J. Cahill also attracted a great deal of attention. The drill team of Dixon Camp, No. 56, M. W. A. had cleverly arranged a float on which members of the team rode. In every way the parade was a huge success and the committee in charge are to be publicly congratulated on their efforts as well as those who so generously co-operated.

Program in Theater
Owing to the rain the management of the festival held the hog calling contest in the Dixon Theater at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The excellent vaudeville was given there also. The theater was well filled.

Many people had never attended a hog calling contest before so to them it was a novel affair, and proved very interesting as well as amusing. Each caller had his friends and each was given a rousing cheer at the conclusion of his calling.

The entries in the contest were: Charles W. Clopine, Compton; Allen Biesecker, Amboy; C. M. Butterbaugh, Oregon; Howard Biester, Sublette; Henry Hey, Dixon; F. J. Heckman, Dixon; William Sindlinger, Dixon.

Two Ties Result.
The prize winners were:
First Prize—C. M. Butterbaugh and Henry Hey, a tie.

Second Prize—Howard Biester and F. J. Heckman.

The judges were, Amos Bosworth, Lee LeFevre and Ray S. Kline, who took the place of Mark D. Smith, who was unable to be present.

Supervisor Frank Sproul presided at the contest.

Fiddlers' Contest
Because of the inclemency of the weather, the Old Time Fiddler's contest will be held at Armory hall this evening instead of on the platform at the court house square. The judges will be on hand to select the best fiddlers, in this part of the program which is open to the world.

This evening the Mardi Gras will be held. There are no set rules governing this event, the only requirement being that contestants be masked and circulate through the business section. The judges will be on the streets viewing the various costumes and will notify the individuals selected as competing for prizes to report at the Armory hall at 9 o'clock at which time the prizes will be awarded. Grown-ups and children are eligible to compete for prizes in this department of the program.

The big free dance this evening will also be held in Armory Hall following the award of the Mardi Gras prizes, and during the dance members of the Knights of Columbus will be in charge of the various booths, the proceeds from which will be divided with the Fall Festival organization.

The Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce made the round of the business houses today and reports that there was considerable business on Thursday, opening day of the Festival, notwithstanding the fact that it rained hard most of the afternoon. Visitors were here from Amboy, Oregon, Rochelle, Sterling, Polo, and many of the other towns within a radius of twenty-five miles.

This all shows that people will come to Dixon and they will purchase merchandise if there is something doing to bring them in. All merchants are anticipating good business Saturday. Most of the business houses remained open last night and will do so this evening.

THE PIONEER
LONG YEARS ago I blazed a trail
Through lovely woods unknown till then,
And marked with cairns of splintered shale
A mountain way for other men.

For other men who came and came;
They trod the path more plain to see;
They gave my trail another's name
And no one speaks or knows of me.

The trail runs high, the trail runs low,
Where windflowers dance, or columbine;
The scars are healed that long ago
My ax cut deep on birch and pine.

Another's name my trail may bear,
But still I keep, in waste and wood,
My joy because the trail is there,
My peace because the trail is good.

From "The Light Guitar", by Arthur Guiterman.

Grape Conserve
Five pounds Concord grapes, 5 pounds sugar, 1 pound seedless raisins, 2 oranges, 1 cup nut meats.

Hickory nuts, pecans or English walnuts are the best nuts to use. Almonds can be used but they must be blanched and shredded.

Wash grapes and pick from stems. Pick and cook pulp and skins separately. Rub pulp through colander to remove seeds. Put skins, sifted pulp, grated rind and juice of oranges and raisins into preserving kettle. Bring to the boiling point and slowly sift in sugar. Cook twenty minutes and add nuts. Cook ten minutes longer and put into sterilized glasses. Cover with paraffine when cold.

Plain grape marmalade is very good and is made the same way, omitting the raisins, oranges and nuts.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN OUT TO RAISE RESEARCH FUND

New York—(AP)—Thirty thousand women belonging to the American Association of University Women are attempting to raise one million dollars to encourage post graduate and research work among college women.

Prof. Emma H. Gunther of Columbia university has been appointed field secretary of the fellowship fund. She has begun a tour of the United States in its interest.

Miss Gunther was American delegate to the International Federation of University Women in Madrid, Spain, in September, where the subject of more fellowship for women the world over was discussed. She was also exchange professor under the Carnegie Foundation to China.

A number of the fellowships will enable university women to have a period of graduate study in some country other than their own and a number will be in the form of prizes awarded for research in special subjects.

CIVIC SPIRIT IN DIXON IS GOOD, VERY GOOD

Let no one tell you hereafter, that there is no civic spirit in Dixon and community, for an excellent spirit and much civic pride was plainly evidenced last evening in the large attendance at the parade at the Festival, even if the heavens sent a continuous steady and cold downpour of rain. And the brave exhibitors and those who rode in and on the floats—all are to be commended for their spirit. The parade was a great success.

Ladies' Aid Society Was Well Attended

The Ladies Aid Society of the St. Paul's Lutheran church held a meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rae Arnold on Peoria avenue. Various Hallowe'en games were enjoyed and music also. The home was beautifully decorated in keeping with Hallowe'en. Later a tempting luncheon was served.

PARLOR CLUB TO MEET MONDAY AFTERNOON

The O. E. S. Parlor Club will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 in Masonic Temple. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mesdames J. M. Lund, George Horton, A. G. Burnham, and Miss Lucille Trautman.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUDLER

The bravery and confidence of the women left behind was stressed in all reports of the sailing of the Graf Zeppelin for America. We were told of white-haired and smiling Mrs. Mrs. Eckener whose husband commanded the craft and whose son was an engineer. She was reported as saying, "I do not worry; my husband always reached his goal." We were told of the humbler wives of the crew who merely smiled and waited for word of their husbands.

ALL BUNK!
As a woman I dare wager any treasure that these mere male reports, their version of what a wife and mother should be like at such a moment. This tradition of woman's ability and willingness to wait, and her lack of misery while so doing, is a male-created myth, designed to make men more comfortable while out about their own affairs without worry of grieving women at home.

NIGHT WORK
The evil of women working at night is pointed out by the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Labor Department which advocates legislation forbidding the employment of women at night in any state. The National Woman's Party protests, of course, just as it always protests any proposed legislation discriminating between men and women. The party believes that such legislation limits women's opportunities as wage-earners.

HOW ABOUT AT HOME?
The Women's Bureau reports that only 16 states now prohibit night work for women and comments, "For the night worker, the end is often ruined health." Those who know something about the life of the supposed "sheltered woman" in the home smile a little at this, in remembrance of the infinite inroads made upon a mother's night, for instance, by the responsibilities towards small or ill children. One wonders, after all, if night work in factory or office can be much harder for a woman than home night work.

Regular Meeting W. M. S. Christian Church

The regular meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the Christian church Thursday, Nov. 1st. During the short business period, presided over by the President Mrs. J. F. Kindig, the following recommendations were presented by the executive committee, and accepted. That the Society, with the co-operation of the other Missionary Departments, present the Woman's Day Program, with a reception to all women of the church at the December meeting, as a culmination of Woman's Day. The reception committee, Mrs. J. F. Kindig, Mrs. Geo. Netiz and Mrs. Cleaver. The committee on program, Mrs. J. E. Newcomb, Mrs. Allen and Olive Palmer. Mrs. Jesse Martin gave the Devotional, "New Men in Christ," Col. 3:8-11. Mrs. Harry Stauffer had charge of the presentation period, the following subjects discussed, "Why does the educational situation for Negroes differ so greatly from general American education?" presented by Mrs. J. E. Reagan, Mrs. A. S. Derr giving an insight as to the condition of work among Yakima Indians and Mrs. H. W. Stauffer giving facts concerning labor, marriage, literacy and citizenship in French fields. Ethel Seyster gave a most interesting talk on the Highlanders.

At the close of the meeting, dainty refreshments were served by the committee and a social hour followed.

Altar and Rosary Society Election

The Altar & Rosary Society of St. Patrick's Catholic church met at the K. C. home Thursday afternoon at which time the hostesses were Mrs. Charles Koch, Mrs. Paul Crabtree, Mrs. L. G. Graham and Mrs. John James. During the afternoon the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

rhinestones, which corresponded with the beautiful head band and other accessories to match. She also wore a string of pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Geil is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Horlacher. She has a charming personality which has won many friends since going to Sterling with her parents from Genesee two years ago.

Mr. Geil is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Geil of Jordan. He has been employed at the D. K. service station the past year. After congratulations, a delicious two course wedding dinner was served by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Emma Pollock.

A bouquet of orchid pompons graced the dining table as a center piece and other decorations were carried out in the bride's chosen colors, orchid and white.

Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Geil departed by motor for a trip to Indianapolis, Ind., visiting at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Horlacher. The bride wore a modish costume of sail-or blue silk.

POINTERS FOR PARENTS

Have you just received a note from the teacher that William is not getting along in school? That he won't pay attention and can't get his work, that he sits and looks out of the window and won't study? He has been late twice in a week. He plays in school and disturbs the children around him.

You are thinking up things to say to William. Perhaps you have even gone into the closet under the stairs to see if that old switch is still hanging on its hook, and wondering if a little dressing down now wouldn't do William some good.

The two switchings William got in the spring mellowed him a bit for the time being, but as nearly as you can remember three days after his trouncing William played hooky and went swimming.

William! William! William! The apple of your eye, but a long sharp thorn in your side! You—to have an incorrigible boy like that! How could it have happened? It was all right for other people to have bad boys but not for you.

You would have thought of playing truant about as much as you would have thought of murdering your pet dog. Where could William have gotten it?

The chances are about 99 to 1 that your William is as fine a fellow as ever lived.

His tardiness and his bad marks, his laziness about his lessons, even his one day of truancy, have been for countless ages, characteristics of boys who turned out to be anything from presidents down.

William is growing, and he doesn't like books and lessons—there isn't any doubt of that, but books and lessons are not always criterions of a boy's worth. He likes to stop and play marbles, and waste his time standing before score-boards, and sneak off to swim, or go to too many movies, but aside from these heinous crimes, your William may be pure gold.

Watch yourself stern parents, not William. Don't beat him and nag him and scold him until he hates both you and home.

Talk to him and explain your hopes to him, and make a companion of him. Above all things, have understanding and sympathy for him. And

TRAIN COMPETITION.

If you ask the average easterner to name the country's finest "crack" trains, he probably will name the Broadway Limited and the Twentieth Century and let it go at that. Few easterners realize that the really luxurious, speedy trains are found, not in the east, but on the lines west of Chicago.

The Chicago & Northwestern is now advertising its Corn King Limited, running between Chicago, Des Moines, Sioux City and Omaha, as "the finest train in the world." Whether the train actually rates that title we don't know, but the western lines have many others to compete with it.

There is, for instance, the Oriental Limited of the Great Northern. There is the Olympian of the Milwaukee; the Overland Limited of the Union Pacific; the Golden State Limited of the Southern Pacific; The Chief, of the Santa Fe; the North Coast Limited of the Northern Pacific; the Panama Limited of the Illinois Central. All of these are magnificent trains. Let the easterner, who thinks the addition of a club car and a car with valet and maid service makes a train a "crack," take a trip on one of them. He'll have his eyes opened.

A NEW LABOR IDEA.

A new cure for unemployment is suggested by Ethelbert Stewart, chief of the statistics division of the Department of Labor.

He proposes that industry in the United States should adopt the five-day week within a few years, following this, perhaps much later, with the six-hour day. Both of these changes, he says, should be accompanied by an actual increase in wage rates.

A decade ago such a suggestion would have been hooted from one end of the country to the other. Now, while it probably won't get adopted over night, it at least will get a hearing. We have learned in recent years that more things are possible in American industry than we used to imagine.

No one can say, of course, just what will happen in the next decade or so. But, at any rate, it can be said that the five-day week and the six-hour day are at least possibilities now. They are no longer ultra-radical, Utopian dreams.

BOLIVIA BANS BULL FIGHTS.

Bolivia has put the ban on bull fights. A government decree says that all public spectacles must be educational. Since bull fights aren't that, whatever else they may be, they must be stopped.

It would be interesting to see how much a law would work out in this country. Would a heavyweight championship prize fight, for instance, be classed as educational? It ought to be. An earnest, inquiring young man can learn a great deal about what kind of country this is by the fact that two 200-pound bruisers can go into a ring, tap each other for an hour, and come out with something like a million dollars to divide between them.

The prize fight points its own moral. It is, really highly educational.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, remarked in his Labor Day message to trade unionists that "nothing but ignorance and stubbornness" stand in the way of sensible solution of the industrial problems of the United States. Nowhere in the United States can workingmen find a better understanding or a deeper sympathy with their problems than in Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for the Presidency, who himself has earned a living with his hands. He preaches higher wages—"the highest possible wage." For that, Mr. Hoover is certain, "is the road to increased consumption and prosperity."

At a recent exposition in Mexico a dress so flimsy that it can be drawn through a finger ring was exhibited. Judging from the way the flappers are gowning themselves lately, it won't be news until dress is exhibited that can be pulled through the eye of a needle.

A headline says "Cutten Group Buys Interest in Sinclair Oil." Wasn't it that same group that bought an interest in bootleg liquor?

George Bistany, New York huntsman, is going to Africa in search of a white rhinoceros. But why such a journey when they're still running those New York night clubs?

In a middle-western city at an anti-Smith meeting "They Kept the Pig in the Parlor" was suggested as a campaign song. Governor Smith denies it's a blind pig, anyway.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinymites began to groan because the rope that they had thrown missed Mister Whale by many feet. "Poor shot!" one Tiny cried. "Let's pull it in and try once more. A lot of sport may be in store. Don't give up now. There's nothing gained if nothing's ever tried."

"That's right," said Scouty, "there is hope if we pull in our lengthy rope. Let's try and have it pulled aboard while I am counting ten." The rope came dragging over the side of their big boat. Then Scouty cried, "Say, if at first we don't succeed, we'll try and try again."

The rope now coiled upon the floor and then they threw it out once more. The captain then came out on a daid. "What are you up to now?" Wee Coppy answered, turning pale. "Why, we are trying to catch that whale. Please let us see if we can't do that clever trick somehow."

Before the captain had a chance to answer, they began to dance. "Oh, look, the whale has caught the rope," cried Scouty in delight. "That surely was a clever shot. The rope flew out and hit the spot. Now if the whale will just hang on, I'm sure we'll be all right."

"Say! Lookie here!" the captain snapped. "If into some big scrape I'm trapped, you Tinymites are going to get a spanking, good and sound." This scared the Tinymites a lot, and Clowny whispered, "Like as not, the whale will jerk the boat along until it runs aground."

However, such was not the case. The monstrous whale began to race. He held tight to the spot and soon a fast trip was begun. The burly captain looked surprised 'cause suddenly he realized the boat was speeding over the sea. Then someone yelled, "What fun!"

As Others See It

MR. HOOVER ON BUSINESS AND BUREAUCRACY.
(New York Sun)

In his speech in the Garden last night Mr. Hoover pictured, far more impressively than it had been pictured before, the sharp turn which the United States made after the war. During that conflict the Government was depended upon to solve every economic problem. The energy of the people was absorbed in centralized power. The Federal Government was a "despotism which undertook unprecedented responsibilities, assumed autocratic powers and took over the business of citizens." The people were "regimented" temporarily into a socialistic State. When the conflict ended there was the question whether America should keep on the path of paternalism and socialism or swing back to the individualism which had made us great and powerful.

"When the Republican party came into full power it went at once resolutely back to our fundamental conception of the State and the rights and responsibilities of the individual. Thereby it restored confidence and hope in the American people, it freed and stimulated enterprise, it restored the Government to its position as an umpire instead of a player in the economic game."

So in the last ten years we have more than overcome the economic losses of the war. We have gone on to a prosperity hitherto unknown, while in Europe there are evidences that retarded recuperation has been due in many cases to "the stifling of private initiative on one hand and the overloading of the Government with business on the other." On this foundation Mr. Hoover based his criticism of the Democratic party of today.

"Because the country is faced with difficulty and doubt over certain national problems—that is, prohibition, farm relief and electrical power—our opponents propose that we must thrust Government a long way into the business which give rise to these problems. In effect, they abandon the tenets of their own party and turn to State socialism as a solution for the difficulties presented by all three. It is proposed that we shall change from prohibition to the State purchase and sale of liquor. If their agricultural relief program means anything it means that the Government shall directly or indirectly buy and sell and fix prices of agricultural products. And we are to go into the hydroelectric power business."

All this is to Mr. Hoover "a huge program of government in business" from which he recoils. He sees in it something that would affect the daily life of every American and "impair the very basis of liberty and freedom not only for those left outside the fold of expanded bureaucracy but for those embraced within it." He sees the intrusion of government into business as its entrance into a labyrinth "every alley of which leads to the destruction of self government," for to succeed in business government must become despotism. Leadership would disappear; it thrives only in the atmosphere of competition; bureaucracy closes competition. Business ruled by commissions chosen for political and regional reasons, would be put beyond the possibility of effective administration. Mr. Hoover points to Muscle Shoals, the administration of which Congress took six years to decide. He points to the railroads, taken over by the Government in the war and so reduced in efficiency that when they were tossed back to their owners they were no longer able to meet the needs of transportation.

If any American harbored a suspicion that HERBERT HOOVER is by nature or training a bureaucrat that American must have been relieved last night. No foe of bureaucracy, not even President Coolidge or Senator Borah, has spoken more firmly against the evil:

"Bureaucracy does not tolerate the spirit of independence; it spreads the spirit of submission into our daily life and penetrates the temper of our people, not with the habit of powerful resistance to wrong, but with the habit of timid acceptance of irremediable might. You cannot extend the mastery of the government over the daily working life of a people without at the same time making it the master of people's souls and thoughts. Every expansion of government in business means that government, in order to protect itself from the political consequences of its errors and wrongs, is driven irresistibly without peace to greater and greater control of the nation's press and platform. Free speech does not live many hours after free industry and free commerce die."

Nor would Mr. Hoover tolerate bureaucracy even if bureaucracy were efficient in its conduct of business. It would destroy political equality, increase abuse and corruption, stifle initiative, undermine the development of leadership, extinguish equality and opportunity, dry up the spirit of liberty and progress. The power of this denunciation is multiplied when it comes from a man who has had remarkable opportunities in this and other countries, in peace and in war to observe the workings of government in business and who testifies as first hand.

So in his Garden speech Mr. Hoover built a new platform of individualism. It was not only his best speech of the campaign. It was the most reassuring utterance in the struggle for the Presidency. It brings confidence not merely to business, but to every citizen, that Mr. Hoover's election would mean the protection of the individual and his ambition and energy against the dead hand of the Federal Government in business.

Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The electioneering William Lynch did in his home for his favorite presidential candidate was made the basis on which Mrs. Bertie M. Lynch won a decree of divorce yesterday.

"My husband is a Democrat and thinks that Alfred E. Smith is the best man for President," Mrs. Lynch testified. "I am a Republican and I'm for Herbert Hoover. I told my husband I thought Hoover was the best man and he got angry, grabbed me around the neck and rapped his knuckles on my head attempting to make me take back my statement and change my vote intentions."

Declaring a wife's right to support any candidate she prefers, the Judge signed the divorce decree.

The subject for the morning sermon shall be "The Law of Love."

THE FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Rev. A. Turley Stephenson, Minister

The Church School convenes at nine forty five with classes for all. Aside from the congregational singing the special music furnished by the church school orchestra is one of the inviting features. At the annual meeting of the church School board last week Mr. Charles C. Hintz was elected General Superintendent of the school to begin his twenty-second year in this capacity. A compliment rarely bestowed either upon school or officer. A splendid corps of officers and departmental heads were selected to help the General Superintendent to make the coming year one of the best, if not the best in the history of the church.

The sermon at the morning hour of worship will be preached by the pastor and his subject will be "Life's Compensations." The chorus choir will sing "Still, Still, With Thee" by Arthur Nelson, director of the large musical organization of the Chicago Sunday Evening Club. Mr. Robert Anderson, well known in our own city, will sing, "The Great Awakening" by Cramer.

Notice is directed to the change in the hour of the evening service which has been changed from seven thirty to seven o'clock. This service will be just one hour in length and will close promptly at eight o'clock. The pastor will give a series of special addresses at this hour during the month of November. The subject of his address for next Sunday evening will be "What Is Religion?" Also special music will feature these evening hours of worship. Next Sunday evening the high school chorus will sing, "He Lives On High" by McKinney. The solo numbers will be a soprano solo by Ruth Leydig and a violin solo by Viola Vaage.

The High School League will meet at five thirty for lunch after which election of officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Every student of the high school and every boy and girl of high school age are invited. The mid week service will be on Wednesday evening at seven thirty. The lesson from the Sermon on the Mount will be The Lord's Prayer. The New Testament history lesson will be the gospel of St. Luke.

The first meeting of the Men's Club for the year will be held in the church on Monday evening, Nov. 12. Supper at six thirty. The address will be given by the new District Superintendent Dr. L. L. Hammitt. There will also be other features of interest on the program.

The regular meeting of the Wesleyan Missionary Society which would be on next Tuesday evening, has been postponed one week because of election day.

7:30 Evangelical Service. The third

The subject will be "The Finished and Unfinished Work of Christ."

This message is a very vital one when the Atoning work of Our Lord Jesus Christ is being denied. The wages of sin is death. All have sinned and come short of the glory of God: there is none righteous, no, not one; and the soul that sinneth must die. But God commendeth His love toward us. God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Mid-week Services

7:30 Wednesday—Prayer and Praise and Bible study hour. We urge every member to be present in preparation for our revival services to begin Sunday, Nov. 11th. The Official Board will meet after the prayer service.

Revival services under the direction of Rev. J. L. Lobaugh pastor of the Trinity Evangelical church, Sterling, Ill., will be with us beginning Sunday evening, Nov. 11th, until Nov. 25th. The singing will be under the leadership of the pastor.

This revival meeting is held for the purpose of saving souls. Are you a Christian? There are two kinds of Christians—real and nominal; true and false, professors and possessors, dead formalists and those who have passed from death unto life. You are lost if Jesus has not saved you.

Christ died for our sins according

4 as a day of prayer. The prayer ap-

League is as follows: "On the 6th of November the people of the United States will face the greatest crisis since the Civil War, and one of the greatest in the 132 years of the nation's existence. The party issues involved are merely incident. The real conflict is not political but spiritual and moral; and the victory, if achieved, will be won in the spiritual realm.

The battle is a titanic struggle between the powers of light and darkness. It is a conflict between the hosts of Satan and the forces of righteousness and truth. Carnal weapons will be of small avail. Spiritual forces must be countered by spiritual forces. The only certain pathway to victory lies in intercessory prayer. Hence God's children who are alive to the peril that is facing our nation must cry earnestly day and night for deliverance and victory." As a church we will remember this request and join with the hosts of God in prayer. Some remarks will be made by the pastor in the evening in reference to the crisis that faces the American people. The meaning of "Religious Intolerance" will be considered.

FINAL RETURNS IN DIGEST POLL SHOW
HOOVER IS AHEAD

The Republican Nominee is Leading in 42 States
Last Poll Shows

Hoover is shown ahead in 42 States and the "Solid South," which has been Democratic for more than fifty years, will be broken according to the final returns of The Literary Digest's huge national Presidential poll published today.

Alabama and Arkansas are practically a stand-off between the two candidates in this pre-election balloting and The Digest reports that most of the political observers are inclined to place both of the States in the Smith column.

With the exception of a few somewhat doubtful sections, Hoover is leading by substantial majorities in all of the other 42 States and the returns indicate his probable election by an ample margin.

Other than the marked pluralities accorded Hoover in the great majority of States the outstanding features of the poll are the indicated gain of the Democratic nominee over the returns of his party in the official 1924 election and the strong Republican invasion of the South.

Of the record-breaking total of 2,767,262 ballots cast in this "postcard election" Hoover has 63.2 per cent, and Smith polls 35.7 per cent with the small remainder distributed among the several minor candidates.

The Literary Digest in its columns calls especial attention to a possible last minute switch of votes, such as occurred between the LaFollette and Davis ranks immediately prior to the 1924 election day, which might reverse the return in certain States from Hoover to Smith, and it is cautioned that this factor should be taken into consideration in determining the validity of the "straw" poll, for all of its ballots were returned and counted more than two weeks before the regular election.

It is pointed out that in a separate polling of Philadelphia, where post-card ballots were sent to the entire electorate, Hoover polls 69,704 votes to Smith's 48,429 or about 4 1/2 to 3, whereas in the 1924 election the ratio between Coolidge and Davis was about 6 1/2 to 1.

Likewise in Chicago, where all the registered voters were asked to respond for their favorite candidate Hoover is leading Smith by 99,916 to 71,810, a ratio of about 10 to 7, while four years ago Coolidge received approximately a 3 to 1 return over Davis in the regular election returns, showing a possible heavy Democratic trend in the larger cities.

The poll indicates Hoover leading in New York State with a plurality of 219,920 to 135,659 votes will all the returns counted. In New York City, where it is stated every accredited voter was asked to vote in this poll, Smith leads his Republican rival by 140,770 to 105,864, while in 1924 Coolidge carried all five boroughs of the city.

The tabulations show Hoover ahead in Massachusetts, which is considered by many astute political observers as the prize doubtful state of the entire Union, by a margin of slightly over 2 to 1.

The completed returns show Smith receiving about 38 per cent of his support from those who stated that they voted Republican in the last Presidential election, while Hoover obtains over 75 percent of his strength from those who professed they were Republicans in 1924.

Of the 444,370 who cast ballots in this "straw" election but who did not vote in the official Presidential election four years ago practically 60 per cent are voting Republican and over 38 per cent are voting Democratic in this "straw" poll.

"The poll," The Literary Digest states editorially, "whose final results are tabulated herewith, has proved to be the greatest in history, with the complete returns some 380,000 votes beyond the record-making poll of 1924.

"The total of votes received 2,767,263 out of a total of approximately 19,000,000 ballots sent out, represent a proportion of 14.6 per cent, considerably above the average for polls of this sort.

"The outstanding features of the completed poll are the great pluralities given Mr. Hoover in most of the States, the indicated Democratic gain over 1924, throughout most of the country, especially in the larger cities, and the Republican strength developed throughout the South.

"The Digest, as was announced in the first article on the poll, and has emphasized since, presents his figures in an absolutely non-partisan way, or an 'omnipartisan' way, as one friendly editor puts it, with the desire only to get at the facts in the cast and so fairly present them that it's readers may draw their own conclusions.

"The present huge polling list is the work of a number of years, founded originally on the telephone books of all part of the country, expanded, with the elimination of duplications, by the lists of automobile owners of the country, and, in many places, by registration lists.

"The list of Digest subscribers is not included as a unit, as a good many commentators seem to believe, when crediting the whole polling list with a 'highbrow' tendency, and a companion tendency to minimize the Democratic strength by from 5 to 10 per cent.

"If there is a last minute switch in the present election it must be taken into account in considering the validity of the poll."

Argue Illegal Gas Tax in Springfield
Springfield, Ill., Nov. 1—(AP)—Intricate legal arguments were presented to Circuit Judge Charles Briggie today in what may be the last hearing in the lower court on disposition of the more than $6,000,000 collected under the unconstitutional gasoline tax law.

Arguments were made by a half dozen or more attorneys representing gasoline companies seeking refund of money paid to the state, and by Montgomery S. Winning, First Assistant Attorney General, and other attaches of the Attorney General's office, representing the state.

Judge Briggie is expected to take the case under advisement at the conclusion of this hearing. From the Circuit Court, the cases will probably go to the Supreme Court, regardless of which side wins.

Among contentions of gasoline company attorneys were: that the penalty for non-payment provided in the law was a dures, and hence payments were not voluntary; that the suits are not against the state, hence the constitutional provision exempting the state from being sued does not apply; and that the state has no right to money collected under an unconstitutional law.

HOOPER SMITH?

A Last Minute Campaign Debate

BY JOHN J. RASKOB
Chairman Democratic National Committee

Alfred E. Smith should be elected president of the United States. There never was a man whose training so eminently fitted him for this position. The history of our country has proven conclusively that its presidents such as Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, William McKinley, Woodrow Wilson and Calvin Coolidge, who have received their training as governors of sovereign states, have been infinitely greater presidents than the others. No president ever enjoyed a training equal to that of Governor Smith comprising eight years as governor of the largest state in the Union.

With Governor Smith as president we can look to the same revamping and co-ordinating of the various departments at Washington as occurred under his administration of the state of New York, which rose from one of low efficiency to the proud position of a model for all other states.

This record has achieved the highest praise from Democrats as well as from Republicans like Elihu Root, Charles Evans Hughes, Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and numerous others. In the accomplishment of these results Governor Smith has shown great leadership in his ability to master every situation through bringing the people to his support, thus enabling and compelling his Republican legislature to support his progressive policies.

That Cry of Socialism

When Mr. Hoover, at last goaded into saying something, drags out the dead old cry of socialism, the people of New York state who know Governor Smith just laugh, because Hoover is only doing what the governor's opponents in New York state have done in desperation in every campaign in which Smith has been elected as governor. Desperate is quite a proper word to describe the attitude of a party which resorts to charging a man with being a socialist because of his desire to provide reasonably prudent protection of public interest in the handling of our great national resources, which are a heritage of the people of all time and not only of those of this generation.

When Owen D. Young, head of the foremost electric business in the nation, says "I shall vote for Governor Smith as the man with the greatest demonstrated capacity for political leadership of any I have ever known," he means just what was meant by John W. Davis, expert on foreign affairs and legal representative of many of America's biggest financial interests, when he said that of all the men he has known the governor is best equipped to deal with the multi-

Smith, "a master in the science of politics."

BY ANDREW W. MELLON
Secretary of the Treasury

While the Democratic candidate has told the public what he proposes to do, Mr. Hoover, the Republican candidate, is in the fortunate position of being able to state not only what he will do, but also what he and the administration, of which he has been an important part, already have done.

Today the finances both of the government and of the country are in a sound condition. Under the present administration taxes have been materially lowered on four occasions. Expenditures have been cut. The public debt has been reduced so that it is no longer a heavy burden on the taxpayers. The nation has been given the benefit of a protective tariff; and during the entire period the country has moved steadily forward, getting further and further away from the unsettled conditions which prevailed in 1921, when the present Republican administration took office.

During this period more than two and one-half million individuals were relieved entirely of all liability for federal income taxes; and yet, due to increased prosperity, the income reported by the decreased number of taxpayers was three billion dollars more than was reported in 1921. Taxes were reduced about 1800 million dollars a year or about five million dollars a day as compared with what they would have been under the 1918 law.

Expenditures and Debt Reduced

Under the budget system, the government's spending departments have been organized and the budget has been reduced by nearly 1900 million dollars as compared with the last fiscal year of the preceding Democratic administration. At the same time the public debt, has been reduced over six billion dollars.

So long as the war debts owed to this country by foreign governments remained unsettled they constituted an unknown quantity in the balance sheets of both debtor and creditor governments. In order to put an end to such uncertainty, this government proceeded at once to a settlement of the debts owed to this country by foreign nations and reached agreements with all the principal debtor nations for amounts exceeding 11 billion dollars.

Another important policy of the administration has been to provide adequate credit for agriculture. The war claims against Germany and Austria have been settled in a way satisfactory to those nations as well as to ourselves; loans made to our railroads during the war have been nearly all repaid; and the charters of the Federal Reserve Banks have been renewed, thus insuring a continuation of the banking system under which we were able to finance the war and to pass safely through the reconstruction period without any sharp and disastrous money panics such as visited the country after the Civil and Spanish wars.

A Great Organizer and Leader

All these things were not accomplished without violent opposition in Congress. In carrying out its program, the Republican party has given a notable instance of platform promises which have been carried out. Under the leadership of President Coolidge, it has proved itself a party of constructive ability. In Mr. Hoover, it offers to the country an able and experienced leader, who will carry on the work of the present administration. After a long and successful business career, he has held many public and official positions of the great responsibility. He has proved himself a great organizer, a far-seeing and resourceful executive, and has discharged every duty in a way to merit the highest praise and admiration. Based on nearly eight years of close association with him, I am convinced that he will give the nation a sound and successful administration of the government and that he is supremely well qualified to deal with those great economic problems that influence so directly and to such a very large extent the prosperity of the country and the comfort, welfare and happiness of the people.

Pranks in Chicago Not Safe or Sane

Chicago, Nov. 1—(AP)—Halloween observance in Chicago is neither as safe nor as sane as a Fourth of July celebration, the police announced today after checking up the damage.

Two shootings, two stabbings, one of them fatal, a near-riot when the police clashed with merry-makers and several hundred arrests besides thousands of dollars worth of damage to property all were attributed to last night's celebration.

Bands of mischievous youngsters roamed the streets, scoring parties arranged for them by civic organizations and 200 of them were in one police station alone today as a result of their depredations.

Firemen answered more than 150 false alarms besides many for incendiary blazes started by the merry-makers.

One man was struck by a stray bullet fired by a celebrant, a Negro in masquerade died from a stab wound, a fifteen year old boy was wounded in the foot when an irate neighbor fired at a crowd of youths and a man was stabbed when he ignored a hold-up, believing the robbers to be Halloween merry-makers in disguise.

Policemen called to remove a burning ice truck from street car tracks were forced to draw their pistols before the crowd that set it afire would withdraw.

GOOD LUCK
MARGARINE

BECAUSE you know the wonderful economy of Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine, you may have doubted that its flavor matches perfectly the most expensive spread-for-bread. Possibly you have made the mistake of confusing GOOD LUCK with ordinary margarines made from inexpensive vegetable oils.

"Taste them both, please, and tell us, if you can, which is which," we challenged, after distributing samples of the most expensive spread-for-bread and Jelke GOOD LUCK to the entire cast of "Manhattan Mary" on the stage of Cohan's Grand Opera House in Chicago.

The result was another complete victory for this finer margarine, made from whole milk and choice meat products. "I don't know," was the reply echoed by every member of the company, including the famous beauty chorus.

Have you tried the Challenge Test? If not, get a package today. Let your family decide. Then use it regularly to obtain all the benefits of its wonderful economy.

In the production of some other margarines inexpensive vegetable oils, devoid of vitamins, are substituted for the whole milk and choice meat products that make GOOD LUCK Margarine so rich in both vitamin "A" and vitamin "D."

The Challenge Flavor Test reveals a new way to save

AT A GLANCE

(By The Associated Press)

Hoover Train—Hoover, at Cumberland, Maryland, declared prosperity essential to progress; asserted Republican administration policies had resulted in decreased unemployment and poverty and higher living standards; speaks today at Louisville and tonight at St. Louis.

New York—Smith participates in New York demonstration today; speaks tonight in Brooklyn.

Fort Wayne, Ind.—Robinson criticized Curtis suggestion for interstate marketing corporation as farm relief measure and Hoover proposal for special session of Congress.

Des Moines—Curtis assailed Smith tariff and immigration stands.

HOOVER IS ACCLAIMED

Hoover Train, enroute to St. Louis, November 2—(AP)—Continuing his march through the border states in his final drive for the presidency, Herbert Hoover today undertook the most strenuous program he will have on his journey to his California home. This included two set addresses, the first at Louisville just before noon, and the second at St. Louis tonight, besides brief rear-platform speeches in a number of towns in Indiana and Illinois through which his special train will pass during the afternoon.

For his day of rapid-fire action, the Republican presidential nominee was encouraged by the acclaim which he had received in Maryland and West Virginia, the first of the four border states through which he passed after leaving Washington late yesterday.

Given Ovation

The special train made an unscheduled stop at Brunswick, Maryland, so that Hoover might greet a large crowd gathered there. As the nominee appeared on the rear platform of his private car with Mrs. Hoover he was given an ovation which continued as the train pulled out.

The nominee began his final campaign speech-making at Cumberland, Maryland, the next halt along his route. There he left his private car to talk about prosperity to a throng which filled the public square adjacent to the station and overflowed into a half dozen streets converging on this square.

Prosperity Theme

"The basis of all progress, of all advance in our country must be its continual prosperity," he said. "Prosperity at base rests on there being a job for every man—that there shall be stable employment and advancing standards of living. It rests equally upon a stable agricultural industry."

Reviewing then what he said was the progress of the country during the last seven years of Republican administration, Hoover said he could not believe that the American people "wish to abandon these policies of government which have been maintained by the Republican party and without which results so amazing and so stimulating to the spiritual as well as to the material advance of the nation would not have been possible."

From West Virginia his route carried him into Ohio, where he was awaited by Robert H. Taft, son of Chief Justice Taft and a Committee from Kentucky.

At Louisville, Governor Smapson and Senator Frederic M. Sackett, arranged to meet the candidate and accompany him on an automobile parade through the city to the Jefferson County court house the scene of the second prepared speech of his homeward journey.

SMITH IS AT HOME

New York, Nov. 2—(AP)—Broadway, historic welcoming ground for returning heroes, echoes today to the tread of a native son whose long campaigns in the field of political battle have won him the title of "Happy Warrior."

Alfred E. Smith was the man of the hour and New York's famous thoroughfare, despite only one day's preparation, was ready for his coming.

The Broadway parade, which gets under way at noon at the Battery and winds up a little more than an hour later at 59th street, was only a starter on the nominee's program for the day. Tonight, in the Academy of Music in Brooklyn, he will go on the air at 10 o'clock for another hour's campaign speech and on the platform with him will be Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for the office he now holds and the man who dubbed him the "happy warrior" in his nominating speech at Houston.

The two men, long personal and political associates, will cooperate in a twin assault on the Republican strongholds in New York State issues will be the main subjects of the argument.

Five thousand of New York's "finest" were called to duty for the Broadway procession, while 1,500 had been summoned to guard the Governor's route to Brooklyn.

Governor Smith is not certain about his plans for next week, or beyond his Madison Square Garden speech tomorrow night. He believes, however, that his radio talk election eve will be delivered from the National Broadcasting Company's new studio instead of from his suite in the Hotel Biltmore. The talk will be broadcast immediately after Herbert Hoover has delivered his final word to the electorate at 10 o'clock, Eastern time, from Palo Alto, Calif.

News From Grid Camps of Large Schools of West

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Win or lose, Michigan backs its football team.

Although the Wolverines have lost four straight games—the worst football record in Michigan's history—more than 85,000 spectators will watch their attempted comeback tomorrow when they clash with Illinois at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Hope for such a comeback was at a high pitch both among the students, the team and coaches today. Michigan's showing against Wisconsin last week, when they held the Badgers until the last two minutes of play, and Illinois' difficulty in turning back Northwestern, started it all, and interest was probably keener than ever before.

Coach Zuppke sensed the optimism and determination, taking with him almost every available man he could rely upon to make yardage and open a hole through the rapidly improving Michigan line.

"It is going to be a big fight," Zuppke said as he left Champaign last night. "We will be forced to the limit. Don't let anyone fool you. Michigan has a three better team than it had two weeks ago."

The Michigan team, too, was in its best shape of the season with only Del White, halfback, out of the lineup because of injuries. The line was expected to be strengthened with the return of Bovard, veteran center.

Powerful representatives of eastern and southern gridiron, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Alabama, invaded Big Ten territory today ready to provide the Western Conference with the brightest intersectional program of its history tomorrow. Undefeated but far from confident, Princeton's undefeated Orange and Black machine invaded Ohio State, Alabama, was at Wisconsin and Pennsylvania limbered up at Chicago.

Upwards of 75,000 will watch the duel between the Buckeyes and Princeton tomorrow, while approximately 40,000 are expected to attend the Wisconsin-Alabama and Chicago-Pennsylvania battles.

Wisconsin was strengthened yesterday by the return of Gen. Rose, star halfback, who with Joe Kresky, a guard, was suspended after the Purdue game for violation of training rules. Kresky returned to the lineup two days ago. The Alabama team is expected to present a baffling passing attack to the Badgers and Coach Glen Thistlethwaite has been working overtime on a defense against it. Ohio State's heavier line made the Buckeyes a slight favorite over Princeton. A snappy drill on offense blocking and tackling completed the Buckeye's drill yesterday and every player was in good shape except Leo Raskowski, veteran tackle, and even he is expected to get into the game if the going is tough. President John Crier Hibben of Princeton and President George W. Rightmire of Ohio State will watch the game, which will clarify somewhat the national team championship race.

Chicago's chance to defeat Pennsylvania became darker yesterday when Glenn Heywood, fullback, injured his ankle. Forty-two Penn players made the trip to Chicago, but they were uneasy about the game, having experienced trouble with Stagg's crimples before. Minnesota's crippled "Bonecrusher" invaded Northwestern and a hard fight was anticipated. Bronko Nagurski, Minnesota fullback, and Duke Johnson, tackle made the trip but were not expected to get into the game. Northwestern also was slightly crippled with Hank Druder, sophomore halfback, definitely lost for the game because of a bad leg.

Will Attempt Grid Game by Lamp Light

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Making their third start toward a little 19 football crown will be the Big Blue squad of Millikin when they clash with Lincoln College tonight, at 7:45 P. M. in the first night collegiate "ghost ball" exhibition in Illinois.

Last finishing touches were made by a corps of Millikin property men today to insure adequate visibility to every spectator. Approximately 5,000 grid fans are expected to attend the contest.

The field will be lighted by twenty-two 1,000 watt lamps set about the field on poles twenty feet high. Each lamp has been fitted with a special reflector with diffusers attached, to prevent any glare and at the same time make the field as bright as day. According to reports, punts can be seen at all times.

Both squads have already held a practice session on the field this week in order to become familiar with the lighting. A specially colored football will be used, to enable spectators to follow the ball at all times during the game.

The weather man, however, frowned a bit when a forecast of probable rain this afternoon and tonight; colder, strong shifting winds was made for this vicinity.

New Mail Route

Washington, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Air mail service between Chicago and Evansville, Ind., will begin on November 10.

This will be the first step in the establishment of the Chicago-Atlanta line. No date has been set for the complete service.

Southbound planes will leave Chicago at 9 A. M., arriving at Evansville at 12:05 P. M., after stops at Champaign, Ill. and Terre Haute, Ind. Northbound planes will leave Evansville at 2 P. M., arriving at Chicago at 5 P. M.

The Postoffice Department also announced a change in the Cleveland-Louisville schedule from day to night service the lighting on the route having been completed. The route connects at Cleveland with the New York-Chicago Line.

Vote for Hoover and prosperity.

DeVos Favored to Beat Shade Tonight

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Seeking revenge and a promised chance to tackle Mickey Walker for his midweight crown, Dave Shade of California will meet Rene de Vos, wirey Belgian warrior, in one of the most important ring duels of Chicago's indoor season at the Coliseum tonight.

The bout will be 10 hours to a decision and a gate of $25,000 seems assured.

De Vos handed Shade an unmerciful beating in their previous encounter at Philadelphia last summer, incapacitating him for several weeks. Shade charged the Belgian was permitted by the referee to foul him repeatedly.

Although the Californian has never lost a fight in Chicago, De Vos was the general favorite. The Belgian has whipped virtually every ranking middleweight championship contender, including Serge Courtney, K. O. Phil Kaplan and "Babe" McConary. Both fighters have been training strenuously for tonight's match.

Show Chicago Chance to Become "Seaport"

Chicago, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Otis F. Glenn, Republican nominee for Senator, declared at a noon-day meeting here today that development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, which would make Chicago one of the ranking seaports of the world, awaits the election of Herbert Hoover.

"Election of Governor Smith, however, would eliminate the possibilities of Chicago becoming an ocean port," he warned.

"The Hoover plan for waterway development includes a direct connection between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Ocean via the St. Lawrence river. I have been informed that one company operating regular passenger liners already is considering the establishment of steamship service directly from Chicago to the European continent."

Mr. Glenn said if Governor Smith's plan for a deep waterway canal through New York state, as an outlet for the Great Lakes, was carried out it would mean New York would continue to hold its monopoly of ocean going trade.

YOUTH HELD IN DIXON ADMITTED THEFT OF AUTO

He Will be Returned to Georgia to Answer Theft Charges

Walter Hemmiller, aged 18, who has been working as a hired man on farms in the vicinity of Dixon was arrested Wednesday evening by Officer Glessner and taken to the police station, where he was locked up to await the arrival of Sheriff W. M. Tanner of Douglas, Ga. When taken in custody, Hemmiller had in his possession a Buick roadster which was stolen from the streets of Douglas early in September. The car still bore the Georgia license plates.

At the police station, Hemmiller was questioned by Chief J. D. Van Bibber and confession to his part in the theft of the car about two months ago. He is said to have told the police that he would willingly return to Georgia with Sheriff Tanner who is expected to arrive today, and waived extradition.

He is said to have stated that he and another young man whose name he gave as T. L. O'Quinn of DeLand, Fla., stopped in Douglas, while the former was on his way to Illinois. The two stole the Buick roadster and he turned over a 1924 model Chevrolet touring car to O'Quinn to compensate him for his part in the theft. O'Quinn is said to have returned to DeLand, Fla., while Hemmiller drove to Akron, Ohio, where he spent two weeks and then came on to Illinois and secured employment on a farm south of Dixon.

The local police, upon seeing the car bearing the Georgia license plates started an investigation and through the Secretary of State's office of Georgia, traced the car to Douglas, where it was found that the plates had been issued for another machine and had not been transferred. After securing a confession from Hemmiller, Chief Van Bibber telegraphed to Sheriff Tanner at Douglas, who replied this morning, asking that the Chief Van Bibber be held until he arrived. Chief Van Bibber wired the Douglas sheriff yesterday informing him that the young man had consented to return to Georgia without extradition papers. It is probable that he will be turned over to the federal authorities at Atlanta for violation of the Dyer act which governs the taking of stolen cars from one state into another.

Crash Near Byron

Oregon, Oct. 31.—Peter Hastings, 75 years old, president of the Ogle County State bank here, and G. R. Haas, also associated with the bank, were slightly injured last night when their automobile and a machine driven by Harry Jackson, 20 years old, Byron, collided in the Blackhawk trail near Byron. Jackson was hurled out of his machine, but was not seriously injured. The three men escaped with minor bruises, cuts and shock, although their automobiles were greatly damaged.

BIG STOCK DIVIDEND

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Directors of the Zenith Radio Corporation of Chicago, have declared a stock dividend of 300 per cent, payable Nov. 18, to stockholders of record Nov. 13, President E. F. McDonald announced today. The increased capitalization will be placed on an annual dividend basis of at least $2 a share, he said. The present stock is on a $2.50 annual basis.

Freeport Workman Commits Suicide

Freeport, Nov. 1.—Despondent because he was all alone in this country, Christ Habernith, 66 years old, 209 East Jackson street, hanged himself at his home here last night.

Placing a belt around his neck, he fastened it to a nail and slumped forward on the floor. The body was discovered by Mike Vosberg, an inmate of the same house, at 10 o'clock last night, about an hour after Vosberg had finished chatting with Habernith.

Habernith, who worked for the Gund-Graham Construction company here, was alone in the United States, coming here about 30 years ago. All of his relatives reside in Germany.

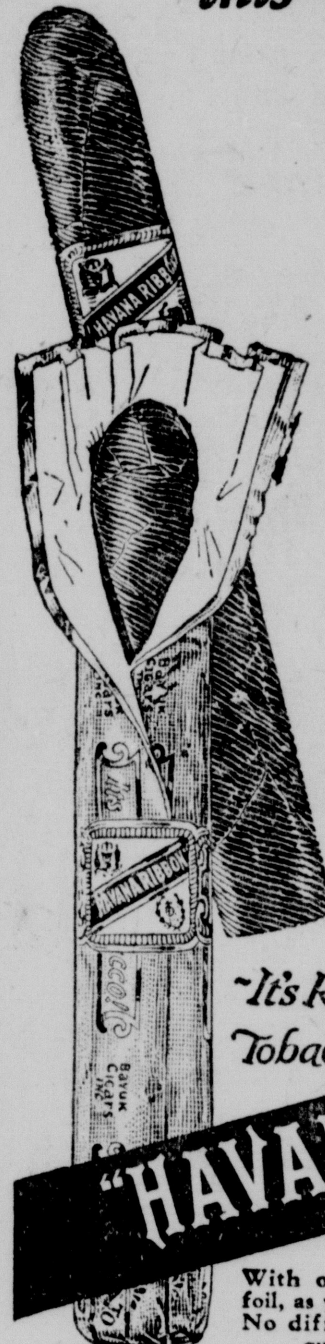

A few days ago he had declared to persons he was living with that he had "nothing to live for," but little thought to suicide was given by his hearers.

SIMPLY AMAZING

—the goodness that has been put into this nickel cigar

IS FIVE cents your limit on the price of a cigar? All right. That doesn't mean sentencing yourself to a punk smoke. Put some fire to one end of a Havana Ribbon, put yourself on the other end—and we guarantee you a smoke that'll positively bring joy to your taste.

Today's Havana Ribbon is absolutely unique among cigars. We contend that it contains more good tobacco than was ever before put into a nickel cigar.

Many five-cent cigars are usually made largely from tobaccos that are cast aside in the making of higher-priced cigars... the bitter under-ripe top leaves of the tobacco plant, the flat-tasting over-ripe bottom leaves, scraps, "clippings," and such. But Havana Ribbon is made entirely of selected fully-ripe, long-filler middle leaves. You get the true tobacco aroma; a smooth, flavor-laden, mellow-mild smoke that is simply amazing for the money.

Let's step up to the nearest cigar counter right now for a show-down.

GREAT POLITICAL CASE READY FOR VOTERS' FINDING

Epoch-Making Campaign is Nearing Its Final Arguments

BY D. FIELD BRITTE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
(Undated Summary)

It is almost over, this historic presidential campaign. The tumult and shouting are at the heights and in a little while the ballot box will be brought forth to receive the verdict of the great American jury—the electorate.

Hoover and Curtis, or Smith and Robinson?

The case is almost ready for decision by the millions of voters who for weeks have listened to the evidence as presented by the principals themselves and an army of earnest advocates. Final summation by the candidates in a last appeal to the public is about all that remains. They will retire then from the long grid of the campaign, while the voter expresses his judgment.

It is no small task that the political parties have thus bequeathed to the man and woman in the voting booth. Out of the hurrahs and debate that has engulfed them they must draw the conclusions upon which they will base their preference between republican and democratic administration for the next four years, and determine their choice between Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith.

Perhaps in no other campaign in years has the voter been confronted with such a galaxy of reasons for voting as he will next Tuesday, and perhaps as never before will normal party ties be stretched and severed. This has been a season of surprises, a fertile field for the political student, a field that in years to come may well produce strange harvests from the seeds of this campaign.

Epochal in many respects, the Hoover-Smith contest has brought the public to grips again on the merits of prohibition and as a result it has vigorously raised the question whether a Catholic should be president. Those two volatile considerations, in league with the long standing farm relief debate, stand as the hub about which the fight has waged, with other issues assuming momentary importance here and there. Together they explain in advance why Smith and Hoover will lose votes in their own parties and recruit heretofore unattainable support in the others. They already have explained away the collapse of normal geographical political boundaries, a circumstance that finds the republican Hoover earnestly appealing for votes in the democratic south and the democratic Smith foraging in the sacred republican precincts of the farmer west.

To a great degree what the voters will do at the polls was within the range of safe forecast as far back as the pre-convention days when the names of Hoover and Smith swept magically to the top among those who were willing to live in the White House. When the conventions had done their work and overwhelmingly Protestant south should win a little at the prospect of voting for the wet and Catholic Governor Smith and his Tammany connections. It was just as certain that the McNary-Haugen bloc of the farmer west should turn upon Mr. Hoover as its foe, especially since many farmers had voiced their preference for former Governor Lowden of Illinois. In the light of the records and personalities of the two chief standard bearers it was equally certain that both parties would ardently court big business, and not without some success. It is a commentary on the changed nature of both parties that outstanding leaders in the money marts are not as a unit behind either, but have given of their favor to both.

Above the whoop and hurrah of the party stalwarts who have labored vocally to the end that they might obtain or retain power has swelled to roaring proportions the cry of rebellion, the cry of disapproving minorities which not only make themselves felt at the polls but bid well to write history as well in political years to come. Fast friendships have wilted in the heat of this campaign and enmities have taken their place; it is so also that deep seated principles have produced strange faces at the rival camps. In so far as it is possible to classify these political wanderers they form what there is of a third element in this strictly two-party contest.

That all these things have registered upon the political master minds in Washington and New York is well evidenced by the strategy they have disclosed. Their quests for votes are country-wide, of course, but the scenes of their greatest activity define also the boundaries of their greatest hopes. Major attention has been given by both Hoover and Smith to the eastern seaboard with its thick growth of electoral votes; Smith appealing to the liberal elements and Hoover striving to retain the normal Republican supremacy.

Just as Hoover has tried to wean the south from its traditional party love, so have the democrats sent emissaries to keep that affection warm, and both have turned to the border states between north and south to rally votes from the often fickle colonies stretching from Maryland to Oklahoma. Only in spots of the far west have the Smith forces determinedly dug in, saving their second major effort for the farmer and wet strongholds of the mid and north-west, where Governor Smith made his first campaign tour. That is the same region where the republicans have striven mightily to

COMMON PEOPLE SHOULD SUPPORT CONSERVATIONIST

Secretary of Joint Legislative Labor Assn. in Statement

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Wealthy fishing and hunting clubs are backing the opposition to the $20,000,000 Conservation Bond issue, Dennis McCarthy, secretary of the Joint Legislative Labor board of Illinois, said here today in calling attention to repeated endorsements of the project by Labor, and the advantages its holds for laboring men.

His statement was as follows: "At the general election on November 6th there will be submitted to the voters of this state on separate ballot a Twenty Million Dollar Bond Issue. The money from the issuance of these bonds to be used in the purchase of land, primarily for the propagation of fish and game. These proposed state preserves and will be used not only for fish and game but for recreation and education centers for the people of this state, thereby giving an opportunity to the people to have places infrequent that the pus discharging back through the Eustachian tube again invades the nasal mucosa and causes a sinus infection. Coughing contributes to this, of course, so that here again we may have pulmonary or tonsillar infections coughed back up into the nasal sinus and other cavities.

Another source of sinus infection is in the predilection of children to put their fingers and other foreign bodies in the nose and thus convey infection. We must also recall that owing to the rule of mortality, there are always relatively more children than adults, also there are more delicate children than there are delicate adults. Our present day care of the delicate child prolonging and sometimes saving its life grants us also a relatively higher number of sinus infections than would otherwise be the case.

At any rate, the important consideration of sinus diseases in children resolves itself into the prevention and cure of the common persistent head colds. Thus, frequent or persistent head colds makes it imperative that the parents take their children immediately to a nose and throat specialist or to any adequate medical advisor to protect the child against chronic infections of the nasal accessory sinuses which, long continued, produce what is commonly known as "chronic nasal catarrh."

We daily see such cases of chronic sinus infection, with their accompanying headaches and other symptoms in the adult, that could easily have been avoided by the proper care of the ordinary head cold during childhood. Fortunately, our present knowledge permits us to cure practically every case of so called "chronic nasal catarrh."

A statement was also issued by Richard Abram, chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declaring that "the working people of Illinois are greatly in need of a forest, game and fish preserve and recreation center in every county."

RISEING LAWYER SUICIDED AFTER ATTENDING SHOW

Relatives are Mystified as to "Tannhauser's" Influence

New York, Nov. 2.—(AP)—After viewing a presentation of Wagner's opera "Tannhauser" at the Metropolitan, Noel Morris, 24, great-grandson of Commodore William H. Vanderbilt, shot and killed himself at his parents' home in East Seventieth street.

A typewritten note tucked between the leaves of a diary gave the only clue to the suicide motive. It read:

"Tannhauser wasn't brave enough to stick it out, but I have the courage to do it. This is the last entry."

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Dennen Morris, the father being a lawyer and prominent in financial circles. His mother was the former Alice Vanderbilt Shepard.

Young Morris had attended the opera on Wednesday night. What connection the story of Tannhauser could have had with his life is a mystery. The opera is in essence an allegory depicting the evils of lascivious love as contrasted to the sweetness of love ennobled by a spiritual quality. In the opera Tannhauser decides to return to a life of sin when it appears he can never marry the girl with whom he is in love.

Morris' parents said he was quiet and studious, never to their knowledge having been interested in girls.

Hence it happened that all the armed prophets conquered, all the unarmed perished.—Machiavelli.

UNBALANCED DIET
BLAMED FOR MANY
WRONGS OF WORLD

Baltimore Doctor Made
Careful Research of Food Facts

BY COLEMAN B. JONES
(Associated Press Science Editor).
Baltimore, Md., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Disclosing facts which he believes may account for much that is wrong with the world, Dr. George Walker, Baltimore physician and research worker, today laid before the American Dietetic Association the initial results of a study of the eating habits of 750 families, ranging from the very poor to the very rich.

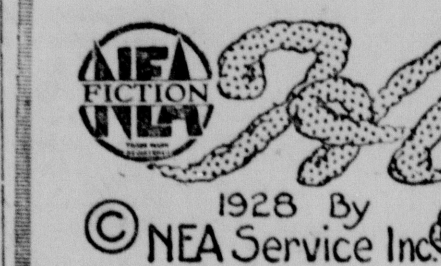

His investigation, growing out of an interest in the welfare of orphans, the insane and other inmates of public institutions in Maryland and elsewhere, he said, has brought to light a number of significant deficiencies in the every day diets of people in general.

Practically all of those he has studied, he said, whether they average only six cents a day for each individual, or $1.95, consume too little of the essential minerals, too much of the vegetable and too little of the animal proteins, less than half their requirements in the way of non-digestible fibrous or cellulose material, and probably only 20 percent as much as they need of raw foods containing the very important but little understood vitamin C.

The absence of that vitamin, which is virtually destroyed by cooking in all vegetables except tomatoes and potatoes and is reduced in them, is known to cause scurvy. While this disease of the capillary blood vessels, smaller arteries and veins, is rare in its recognized form except among isolated sailors and soldiers and explorers, Dr. Walker said he believed that many of the disorders which appear in the gums, the teeth, the upper part of the intestinal tract and the bones could be traced to the widespread deficiency of the same dietary element.

For the average growing child, living at home, he calculated, a minimum expenditure of 57.31 cents a day, at retail prices, is necessary, and for their parents and grown-up brothers and sisters, 44.53 cents. The difference is largely accounted for by the fact that the child needs at least a quart of milk, rich in animal proteins, calcium and phosphorus, every day, while a pint will do for the adults.

Easily Corrected
Dr. Walker based his conclusions on analysis of the foods actually consumed during weekly or longer periods by white and negro families in the light of the most advanced dietary knowledge. Of 300 family food accounts representing a daily individual expenditure around 45 cents, all showed deficiencies of one kind or another, he said, which could easily be corrected without adding to the cost. THIS HAS HAPPENED
JERRY RAY thinks that love is a delusion and decides to marry for money. Her vacation plans are spoiled by the loss of her savings, and nothing remains but to go camping with her roommate MYRTLE. Fate introduces her to a wealthy eligible in the person of ALESTER CARSTAIRS when he crashes his airplane into their camp. But her heart responds to the attentions of DAN HARVEY, his pilot.

ALESTER comes interested in her fresh beauty and showers attentions upon her. Myrtle warns her against him, but a letter from her mother revealing poverty and illness causes Jerry to try to win Alester in order to gain material comforts for all of them.

Unable to borrow money to buy a new gown for a big party Alester has invited her to, Jerry gives way to the temptation to take a lace tunic from the store where she works—intending to slip it back next morning. She has a good time at the party until LEONTE LEBARTY, who is in love with Alester, and her friends tempt Jerry into drinking.

Her dancing partner, urged by a jealous crowd, throws her in the pool to bring her to. Dan appears and drags her out after knocking her abductor down. He wants to take her home but Alester calls him "impudent" and takes her home himself. Jerry is in a panic when she realizes what has happened to the store gown—especially when Myrtle tells her that there is a special detective watching the stock that week.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVI
JERRY'S knees nearly caved in under her as the meaning of Myrtle's words became clear.

"I didn't steal it, Myrtle," she whispered like a frightened child. "I just borrowed it."

"Yes," Myrtle agreed. "It looks like it. That's the way people treat borrowed things all right. For Pete's sake take it off before you stand there and shake to death."

Jerry did not move. Her eyes were wide and set. To Myrtle she looked as if she was petrified with fear.

"Here," she said and began to pull the dress from Jerry's chilled shoulders. It dropped and lay in a damp, soiled ruin. Jerry's feet "stuck out of it," Myrtle ordered and Jerry mechanically obeyed. Then she forced Jerry to remove the rest of her soggy garments, rubbing her briskly afterward with a bath towel.

"Now get into bed," she said, thrusting Jerry's nightgown into her hands.

"You'd better tell me all about it," she said later when she crawled in beside Jerry, who lay with her face buried in her arms on the pillow.

Jerry told her, in snatches of words broken by gasps which suppressed sobs drove from her tortured throat. Myrtle remained silent until Jerry came to the pool incident. Then she threw an arm over Jerry and sought to comfort her.

"Maybe it isn't as bad as it looks," she said hopefully. "If they let you get away with the tunic I guess it means they didn't see you take it."

"But I can't return it now," Jerry moaned despairingly. "And if I don't I'm a thief."

Myrtle considered. "Can't you get the money to pay for it?" she asked.

Jerry shook her head against Myrtle's shoulder.

AS THEY talked on into the night without reaching a solution of Jerry's problem, the conviction that she must return the dress and make a full confession or expose herself to the charge of theft, became more compellingly planted in her mind.

giving such advice, he suggested, would fill an important public need. The general deficiency in fiber consumption, contributing to a number of human ailments, he thought, was a result of the tendency to pass up the coarse foods, raw and cooked, in favor of the more attractive, highly refined products from which most if not all of the "roughage" has been removed. The lack of the blood building element of iron in 49 percent of the food accounts analyzed, however, appeared to be more closely associated with economic considerations, as almost any generous diet will contain a sufficiency of this mineral.
